Dear Travel Company President:

Millions of children around the world are falling prey to sex tourists. Sex tourists are people who believe it is legal and culturally acceptable to sexually exploit children in other countries. They even believe they are helping children because they pay them. This outrage has to be stopped. About 25% of the world's sex tourists are Americans.

Your company must take a principled position to help eliminate this practice. Please sign the ECPAT Code of Conduct for the Protection of Children Against Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children. Under this voluntary Code, a company must agree to:

1. Establish an ethical policy regarding commercial sexual exploitation of children
2. Train the personnel in the country of origin and travel destinations.
3. Introduce a clause in contracts with suppliers, stating the common repudiation of commercial sexual exploitation of children.
4. Provide information to travelers by means of catalogues, brochures, in-flight films, ticket-slips, web-sites, etc.
5. Provide information to local "key persons" at the destinations.
6. Report annually.

More than ninety companies around the world, including Carlson Companies in the United States, have signed the Code of Conduct. Companies like yours are not responsible for the sexual exploitation of children in travel and tourism, but they are in a position to do something to fight it.

More information about the ECPAT Code is available at www.thecode.org. Please contact ECPAT-USA at info@ecpatusa.org to become a part of the solution.

Sincerely,
